Set Texts (3 items)

The recommended editions are as follows. There are various translations of both texts readily available, in hardcopy and digital format (such as via Perseus or the Loeb Online).

Bellum Catilinae - Patrick McGushin, Sallust, 1980

Book | The Latin prescription is the entire text except chapters 40-49, which should be read in translation.

Annals XV - Cornelius Tacitus, (ed.) Norma Miller, 1994

Book | The Latin prescription is chapters 1-5, 7-12, 23-7, 32-44, 48-65, 70, 74; the rest should be read in translation.

Selected Bibliography - Sallust (38 items)

All of the studies below contain references to further relevant works, which you will need to follow up on. If you would like to conduct a bibliographical search on your own to find further titles, the Année Philologique is a great tool to do that. It's available electronically (with English search interface) via SAULCAT.
